PREFACE.

The year now almost past will ever be memorable for the historic event which marked its course, the Coronation of Their Majesties the King and Queen. Drawn from every quarter of the globe, the foremost statesmen and chosen representatives of the nations which form this vast Empire, came to do homage to their Sovereign, on that august occasion, when amidst his great officers of state, and in the presence of his Lords and Commons, the King was crowned in the ancient Abbey of Westminster with due pomp and circumstance. Foreign Princes and distinguished Ambassadors lent additional glamour to the scene. The actual ceremony in its old world magnificence and religious significance must have deeply impressed those who were privileged to be present. To the King it must have recalled the antiquity of his dynasty and the splendour of his country's history. Still dearer to him doubtless was the acclamation of his people, which heralded his royal progress through his capital and other chief parts of the United Kingdom, and is now greeting him anew in far off India. The Investiture of His Royal Highness The Prince of Wales at Carnarvon was a picturesque incident of the Coronation year, which directly appealed to the Celtic imagination and the loyalty of the Principality.

The bestowal of honours, hereditary and personal, to mark this auspicious year was kingly in its profusion and impartiality. No political party was favoured, no distant portion of the Empire forgotten. The creations and promotions in the peerage in 1911 are given in the following list:—

NAME OR TITLE.	NEW TITLE.	DATE OF CREATION.
Allendale, Lord	Allendale, V.	5 July, 1911.
Ashton, Thomas Gair	Ashton of Hyde, B.	28 June, 1911.
Benson, Godfrey Rathbone	Charnwood, B.	29 June, 1911.
Bigge, Sir Arthur John	Stamfordham, B.	23 June, 1911.
Brassey, Lord	Brassey, E.	5 July, 1911.
Corbett, Archibald Cameron	Rowallan, B.	27 June, 1911.
Crewe, Earl of	Crewe, M.	3 July, 1911.
Curzon of Kedleston, Lord	Curzon of Kedleston, E.	2 Nov. 1911.
Akers-Douglas, Aretas	Chilston, V.	6 July, 1911.
Elibank, Lord	Elibank, V.	3 July, 1911.
Emmott, Alfred	Emmott, B.	2 Nov. 1911.
Haldane, Richard Burdon	Haldane, V.	27 March, 1911.
Fuller-Acland-Hood, Sir Alexander	St. Audries, B.	22 June, 1911.
Knollys, Lord	Knollys, V.	4 July, 1911.
Lewis, Sir William Thomas	Merthyr, B.	24 June, 1911.
Loreburn, Lord	Loreburn, E.	4 July, 1911.

Strachey, Sir Edward	Strachie, B.	3 Nov. 1911.
Tennant, Sir Edward Priaulx	Glenconner, B.	3 April, 1911.

It will be seen from this list that a marquessate was conferred on the Earl of Crewe, His Majesty's Secretary of State for India, who has held many other high offices. In addition, four earldoms, five viscounties, and twelve baronies were created. Though the Earl of Rosebery sits and votes henceforward in the House of Lords in his earldom of the United Kingdom, he is still of course styled by the title of his more ancient Scottish earldom. In the same way, Viscount Mountgarret sits and votes in Parliament as a baron of the United Kingdom, but is styled by the title of his Irish viscounty. The Earl Curzon of Kedleston sits in right of his newly created earldom in the peerage of the United Kingdom, and also as one of the Representative Peers for Ireland, having been elected for life in that capacity. A similar state of affairs existed in the case of the late Earl de Montalt. The Earl Curzon of Kedleston was honoured also by a special remainder in the patent conferring the minor titles created with the earldom. Unless, happily, he leave a son to succeed him, the earldom will become extinct, while the viscounty of Scarsdale will devolve upon his father, Lord Scarsdale, and his heirs male, and the barony of Ravensdale will pass to his daughters in succession, with remainder in each case to their heirs male. This special remainder recalls a similar one in the patent of creation of the dukedom of Fife. All the other creations of the year have been made with the usual remainder.

The following have been created baronets :—

Thirty-five baronetcies have thus been created, and it will be noticed how widely these honours have been distributed, and how varied the services which have earned them. One of the creations makes a gracious end to a long controversy about the right to a baronetcy, said to have been conferred by GEORGE I. with a special remainder, though the patent was not registered. The baronetcy of the new creation is allowed precedence from 1716, the date attributed to the unrecorded patent. The Roll of Baronets, though expected last January, has not yet made its appearance, but will, we are told, be published in the Gazette at an early date. Whenever it comes, the Roll will be sure of a welcome as the long desired means for the official recognition of baronets who have established their claims, and the suppression of wrongful assumptions. Editors of this and similar works will then be relieved of the invidious task of acting as arbiters without powers of adjudication. In this connection it will be well to point out that it is the duty of the editor of BURKE'S PEERAGE to conform to official and legal decisions, and to record all facts which are properly authenticated, but, despite his ceaseless efforts to obtain full information, he cannot hold himself responsible for omissions when the necessary facts have been withheld from him.

Twenty-five public men of the first rank at home and abroad have been appointed to the Privy Council of Great Britain, namely :—The Lord Kinnear, The Lord Islington, The Hon. Alexander William Charles Oliphant Murray (Master of Elibank), Sir Charles Ernest Schwann, Bart., Sir Joseph Compton-Rickett, William Abraham, John Frederick Cheetham, Hon. Abraham Fischer, Hon. Andrew Fisher, Hon. Sir Edward Patrick Morris, Sir Thomas Vezey Strong, Sir William Reynell Anson, Bart., Sir Frederick Pollock, Bart., Sir John Rhys, Sir Rufus Daniel Isaacs, Thomas Mackinnon Wood, Thomas James Macnamara, John Henry Whitley, Charles Fenwick, John William Wilson, Andrew Bonar Law, William Hayes Fisher, Laurence Hardy, Frederick Edwin Smith, and Frederick Huth Jackson.

The following have been appointed to the Privy Council in Ireland:—Thomas Shillington, Michael Francis Cox, Robert Graham Glendinning, Laurance Ambrose Waldron, and Charles Andrew O'Connor.

There have been many changes on the episcopal bench, and many nominations and translations of Bishops, by which the Right Rev. Edward Stuart Talbot, Bishop of Southwark, has become Bishop of Winchester; the Rev. Hubert Murray Burge, Head Master of Winchester College, Bishop of Southwark; the Right Rev. Charles Gore, Bishop of Birmingham, Bishop of Oxford; the Right Rev. Frederic Edward Ridgeway, Bishop Suffragan of Kensington, Bishop of Salisbury; the Very Rev. Henry Russell Wakefield, Dean of Norwich, Bishop of Birmingham; the Right Rev. Thomas Wortley Drury, Bishop of Sodor and Man, Bishop of Ripon; the Rev. James Denton Thompson, Rector of Birmingham, Bishop of Sodor and Man; the Rev. John Primatt Maud, Vicar of St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, Bishop Suffragan of Kensington; the Ven. Charles Fane de Salis, Archdeacon of Taunton, Bishop Suffragan of Taunton; the Right Rev. William Willcox Perrin, Bishop of Columbia, Bishop Suffragan of Willesden; the Right Rev. John Baptist Crozier, Bishop of Down and Connor and Dromore, Archbishop of Armagh and Primate of all Ireland; the Right Rev. Charles Frederick D'Arcy, Bishop of Ossory, Ferns and Leighlin, Bishop of Down and Connor and Dromore; and the Very Rev. John Henry Bernard, Dean of St. Patrick's, Bishop of Ossory, Ferns and Leighlin.

During the year twenty-six peers have died, whose titles, with dates of death, are given in the Obituary. The baronies of Collins, of Winterstoke, of James of Hereford, of Lochee, of Northcote, and of Dunsandle and Clan Conal have become extinct, six in all. In the same period forty-two baronets have died, as mentioned in the Obituary, and eight baronetcies have become extinct, viz.: Menzies, Elliot, Dorington, Peel, Lewis, Wilks, Scotter, and Honyman. The successions of the new peers and baronets, and the extinctions of the titles arising from these deaths, have all been duly recorded in the ordinary way in the text, including the many which have occurred within the last few days, though each involved a complete rearrangement of the article.

To those who think some apology is due for the ever increasing size of this work I venture to commend a perusal of these lists as a sufficient explanation, though they do not include the innumerable additions made to the Orders of Knighthood, too lengthy to be set forth here, yet affecting not only the Knightage, but nearly every page of the book. This is, it is true, a phenomenal year in which the creations of hereditary and personal honours have revolutionized these pages and rendered previous editions utterly obsolete for current reference. Yet in every year, though in a lesser degree, similar creations make for the growth of the work, which the extinction of titles does little to check, for it is the modern title, not the ancient one, which, as a rule, becomes extinct, so that little space is made available. A family, once firmly established after two or three generations, spreads itself like a tree, in ever multiplying branches and offshoots. It is to this natural increase that the continued expansion of the book is directly due. The many tens of thousands of fresh facts and newly-discovered facts which have to be chronicled in each annual edition almost defy calculation.

Burke's Peerage and Baronetage embraces in its purview the whole proved pedigrees of each family bearing an hereditary title, and of the collateral branches in remainder to the title. These are not truncated or disjointed pedigrees, but the unbroken lineage of every peer and baronet given in narrative form and based on the official records, dealing as fully with the past generations as with the present. No other work on the subject gives information approaching this in interest, volume, or range. Most similar publications, indeed, frankly restrict themselves to the living descendants of peers and baronets, or simply to those bearing titles, and do not pretend to any historical or genealogical value. BURKE'S PEERAGE is also the doyen of works of its kind, for it can point to a longer continuous existence, unchanged in plan and scope, than any other.

It remains for me to thank my correspondents, one and all, for their courteous replies to my troublesome requests for information, and for the care they have taken to correct errors in the proofs submitted to them for revision. I have, moreover, to thank nearly every officer of arms in the Heralds' College, in Ulster's Office, and in Lyon Court for the valuable assistance they have afforded me. I may be allowed to mention more particularly Mr. H. F. Burke, Norroy King of Arms; Mr. G. D. Burtchaell, Athlone; and Mr. F. J. Grant, Rothesay.

ASHWORTH P. BURKE.

KEY TO THE WORK

AND

GUIDE TO RELATIVE PRECEDENCE.

THE numbers prefixed to each name indicate the RELATIVE PRECEDENCE of each person. To avoid unnecessarily large numbers no distinction has been made between brothers and sisters, and uncles and aunts of the same peer or baronet, nor between dowagers. It must be borne in mind that, the nearer to, or higher in the succession a person is, the higher is his or her precedence; thus, a son of a baronet ranks before his uncle, and a dowager peeress ranks before the wife of the living peer.

The numbers prefixed to the names in the following list, though indicating the relative position of those entitled to precedence, do not, of course, show the actual numerical position of each in a general scale of precedence. Thus 17,131 does not mean that there are 17,130 persons of higher rank than the one mentioned, but that he belongs to Class 17 in the scale of precedence, called for convenience 17,000 (see p. 2542) and that the honour from which he derives precedence is 131st in order of seniority in its own degree. The numbers in fact combine two series.

This list includes:—

Archbishops and Bishops.
Peers.
Peeresses.
The sons of Peers.
The daughters of Peers.
The wives of the sons of Peers.
Maids of Honour.
Baronets.
The wives of Baronets.
The widows of Baronets.
The sons of Baronets.
The daughters of Baronets.
The wives of the sons of Baronets.
Privy Councillors.
Knights and Companions of the various Orders.
The wives and widows of Knights and Companions.
Judges and Lords of Session and their wives.
Surnames of Peers and Baronets and of their collateral branches (printed in CAPITAL LETTERS).
Titles merged in higher honours, and extinct titles (printed in italic type).

Burke's Peerage and Baronetage.

Introduction.

THE PEERAGE consists of DUKES, MARQUESSES, EARLS, VISCOUNTS, and BARONS. The first order of Nobility introduced after the Norman Conquest was that of

Barons by Tenure,

A dignity attached to the possession of certain lands held according to the Feudal system, directly under the Crown, and conditionally upon the performance of some honorary services to the Sovereign; such as attendance in the field and the council, and furnishing a stipulated quota of knights, or men-at-arms. This quota was regulated by the territorial possessions of the Baron, those possessions being divided into allotments, for each of which he was required to provide a knight, armed cap-à-pie, whenever the sovereign commanded his presence in the field: hence, according to the number of Knights the Feudal Lord provided, he was said to possess so many knights' fees. But in the reign of KING JOHN, an alteration of great importance took place in the rights of the Barons and Tenants in capite, for only the principal Barons, or Barones Majores, were summoned to attend parliament by particular writs from the King; and the rest, who acquired the appellation of Barones Minores, were called by one general summons from the Sheriffs of their respective counties; and in the following reign, a new law is said to have been made, by which it was established that no person, though possessed of a Barony, should come to parliament without being expressly summoned by the King's writ. Barony by Tenure has ceased for ages. Of late years claims have been made to dignities by right of tenure; but none of these claims have proved successful. There is, however, one Earldom extant—that of Arundel, which the Duke of Norfolk enjoys by the feudal tenure of Arundel Castle; but this honour endures by special act of parliament passed in the 3rd year of KING CHARLES I. To Barons by Tenure succeeded

Barons by Writ,

Or persons elevated to the rank of nobility by being summoned to attend the Sovereign in council, or parliament; which writs were of that description called brevia clausa, from being closed with wax, and impressed with the Great Seal of England. The first of these summonses on record appears to have been tested on the 24th of December, in the 49th year of HENRY III.; but from that period no similar writ seems to have issued until the 22nd year of EDWARD I., when about sixty persons were summoned to attend the King "wheresoever he might be, to advise on the affairs of the Kingdom"; but it has been questioned whether that summons constituted a Peer of Parliament.

To establish an hereditary Barony by Writ, it was requisite, according to some, says

Sir William Blackstone, that two writs of summons should have issued, and a sitting in two parliaments have taken place; but this is a misapprehension; for in the case of the Barony of Clifton there was but one writ and one sitting and that Barony was allowed. Baronies by Writ are heritable by heirs male or female; but in the event of the decease of the Baron without issue male, and with more daughters than one, the Barony falls into abeyance amongst them, and so continues until one of the daughters, or the sole heir of one of the daughters, only survives. The Crown can, however, at any time interfere, and terminate the abeyance in favour of any one of the co-heirs, but it cannot alienate the Barony from the representatives of the first Baron. The mode of terminating an abeyance in favour of a co-heir is, by summoning the individual by the title of the Barony which had been in abeyance. The course observed towards a Peer of a higher dignity is the issue of Letters Patent by the Crown in confirmation of the Barony; and a similar course, that of Letters Patent, is adopted towards heiresses.

The mode of creating Peers by Writ of Summons has been, however, a long time discontinued, and the only writs now issued are those to the eldest sons of Dukes, Marquesses, and Earls,* in their fathers' Baronies; but any such writ does not create a new Barony, the honour being still descendible according to the original limitation. If, however, a writ of summons issue to the eldest son of a Peer, as a Baron, under a misapprehension that the Barony was vested in his father, then the writ is deemed a new creation, and the dignity is heritable as a Barony by Writ. This was established in 1736, by the decision regarding the Barony of Strange, in which James Stanley had been summoned in 1628, under the supposition that the Barony had belonged to his father, William, 6th Earl of Derby; and again, in the similar case of the Barony of Clifford. The first writ to an elder son is stated to have issued in the 22nd year of KING EDWARD IV., when Thomas FitzAlan was summoned to parliament (in his father, the Earl Arundel's barony) as Baron Maltravers. As Barons by Tenure gave place to Barons by Writ, so the latter have been succeeded by Barons by Letters Patent.

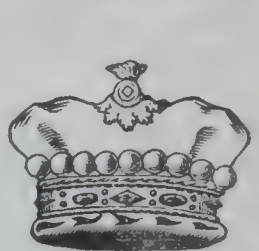
The first instance of this new form of creation occurred in the reign of RICHARD II., when John Beauchamp, of Holt, was elevated to the peerage as Baron Beauchamp of Kidderminster, by Letters Patent, dated the 10th of October, 1387. Lord Beauchamp never took his seat, however, in parliament, as he died in the same year, and was succeeded by his son, with whom the dignity expired in 1420. In olden time it was deemed necessary to invest with robes the newly created Baron in open parliament; and so lately as the beginning of the 17th century, KING JAMES I., in person solemnly inducted the Barons created by patent in the 13th year of his reign, by enrobing each peer in scarlet, with a hood furred with miniver; but in the same year it was determined to discontinue those ceremonies in future, the legal advisers of the Crown having declared that the delivery of the Letters Patent constituted a sufficient creation. In the Patents of more modern times the ceremony of public investiture is expressly dispensed with.

Barons are styled "Right Honourable," and addressed officially by the Crown, "Our Right trusty and well-beloved."

The Mantles of Barons are of crimson velvet edged with miniver, the cape furred with miniver pure, and powdered with two bars or rows of ermine, i.e., narrow pieces of black fur. Baronesses wear the Mantles of Barons edged round with miniver pure, two inches in breadth, and the train three feet on the ground.

Coronet—A plain circle of silver gilt, surmounted by six silver balls at equal distances; the cap of crimson velvet, turned up ermine, with a golden tassel on the top.

Viscount.



The next grade in the British Peerage is that of Vice-Comes, or VISCOUNT, which title formerly applied to the sheriff of a county, but was not used as a designation of nobility before the reign of HENRY VI., when that monarch created John, Baron Beaumont, K.G., by Letters-Patent dated 12th February, 1440, Viscount Beaumont, a dignity which expired with his lordship's son and successor in 1507. A Viscounty is always created by patent, and it descends according to the specified limitation. The honour was originally conferred as an advance-

* There is an instance, in the reign of KING CHARLES I., of the son and heir of a baron who possessed two baronies, having been summoned to parliament in one of them. The Hon. Conyers Darcy, son of Conyers, Baron of Darcy and Conyers (who was subsequently created Earl of Holderness) was summoned to parliament in his father's barony of Conyers in 1680.

ment to Barons, but afterwards created frequently with the Barony; and in modern times it has been conferred without a Barony, as in the instances of Viscount Combermere, Viscount Sidmouth, Viscount Halifax, Viscount Cross, &c.

The style of a Viscount is "Right Honourable," and he is officially addressed by the Crown as "Our right trusty and well-beloved Cousin."

The Mantles of Viscounts are the same as a Baron's, except that two rows and a half of ermine are worn on the cape. Viscountesses wear the Mantles of Viscounts edged round with miniver pure, two inches in breadth, and the train a yard and a quarter on the ground.

Coronet—A circle of silver gilt, surmounted by sixteen silver balls; cap of crimson velvet, turned up ermine, thereon a golden tassel.

Earl.*

The dignity of Earl, which existed in England before the Conquest, was, according to Mr. Cruise, originally annexed to a particular tract of land; and there were three descriptions of Earldoms:

"The first was where the dignity was annexed to the seisin and possession of an entire county, with jura regalia; in which case the county became Palatine, and the person created Earl thereof acquired regal jurisdiction and royal seigniory. By reason of the royal jurisdiction, the Earl Palatine had all the high courts and offices of justice which the King had, with a civil and criminal jurisdiction; and by reason of his royal seigniory he had all the royal services and all the royal estreats which the King had; so that, in fact, a County Palatine was in every respect a Feudal Kingdom of itself, but held of a superior lord."†

The second description of Earldom was that which took its title only from a county, but had no territorial possession annexed to it within the county, nor any of the privileges of an Earl Palatine, and which derived its revenue from a participation in the profits accruing from the pleas of the county court.

The third kind of Earldom was constituted by the Crown's granting a considerable tract of land, to be held "per servitium unius comitatus."

For several centuries, Earldoms have been created by Letters Patent, and the descent of the honour regulated accordingly. The ancient ceremony of investiture, as in other dignities, has been discontinued; and, in consequence of the number of earls, the custom of adopting the title from some county or town has been extended to villages, private estates, and family surnames.

The style of an Earl is "Right Honourable," and he is officially addressed by the Crown as "Our right trusty and right well-beloved Cousin."‡

He bears also, upon some occasions, the title of "Most Noble and Puissant Prince."

The Mantles of Earls are the same as a Baron's with three rows of ermine on the cape. Countesses wear the Mantles of Earls edged with pure miniver, three inches in breadth, and the train a yard and a half on the ground.

Coronet—A circle of silver gilt, surmounted by eight silver balls raised upon points, with gold strawberry leaves between the points; cap of crimson velvet, turned up ermine, thereon a golden tassel.

Marquess.

A marquess (Marchio) is the next degree of nobility. "His office (says Sir William Blackstone) formerly was (for dignity and duty were never separated by our ancestors) to guard the frontiers and limits of the kingdom, which were called the marches, from the Teutonic word 'marche,' a limit: as in particular were the marches of Wales and Scotland, while each continued to be an enemy's country. The persons who had command there were called Lords Marches, or Marquesses, whose authority was abolished by statute 27th HENRY VIII., though the title had long before been made a mere ensign of honour."

* Spelman was of opinion that the title of Earl was derived from the Germans; and having been adopted from them by the French, was rendered feudal and hereditary by Hugh Capet.

† CRUISE On Dignities.

‡ This mode of address is as ancient as HENRY IV., by whom it was first adopted. That Prince, being either by his wife, his mother, or his sisters, actually related or allied to every Earl in the kingdom, artfully and constantly acknowledged that connection in all his letters and other public acts; whence the usage has descended to his successors, though the reason has long ago failed.—Blackstone.

The first English Marquessate was conferred by KING RICHARD II., in 1386, upon Robert de Vere, who was created Marquess of Dublin, and in the next year, Duke of Ireland. His Grace was, however, banished and attainted in 1388, when his honours became forfeited. The second creation of the same dignity occurs in the same reign, when John Beaufort, Earl of Somerset (eldest legitimated natural son of John of Gaunt), was created, 29th September, 1397, Marquess of Dorset. From that period the dignity of Marquess appears to have remained unused until the reign of EDWARD VI., but thenceforward it became a regular and common grade of nobility.

A Marquessate is invariably created by Letters Patent, and the descent regulated accordingly.

The style of a Marquess is "Most Honourable," and he is officially addressed by the Crown as "Our right trusty and entirely beloved Cousin."

He bears also the title, upon some occasions, of "Most Noble and Puissant Prince."

The Mantles of Marquesses are the same as a Baron's, with three rows and a half of ermine on the cape. Marchionesses wear the Mantles of Marquesses, edged with pure miniver, four inches in breadth, and the train a yard and three quarters on the ground.

Coronet—A circle of silver gilt, surmounted by four gold strawberry leaves and four silver balls, alternately, the latter a little raised on points above the rim; a cap of crimson velvet, turned up ermine, thereon a golden tassel.

Duke.

The Dukedom, the most elevated dignity in the English Peerage, was first introduced by KING EDWARD III., who, in 1337, created his eldest son, Edward the Black Prince (then Earl of Chester), Duke of Cornwall, and subsequently Prince of Wales, when the Dukedom merged in the Principality, and has ever since been vested in the heir apparent to the Crown, who, at his birth, becomes Duke of Cornwall. The second Dukedom was conferred, 1351, upon Henry Plantagenet (son and Heir of the Earl of Derby), under the title of Duke of Lancaster, which dignity expired at his Grace's decease, in 1360, without male issue, but was re-conferred, in 1362, upon John of Gaunt, who had married the Duke's second daughter, and eventually sole heiress, the Lady Blanche Plantagenet. In the reign of ELIZABETH, anno 1572, the whole Order, with the exceptions of Norfolk and Somerset then under attainder, became utterly extinct, but it was revived about fifty years afterwards by her successor, in the person of George Villiers, Duke of Buckingham.

A Duke is styled "His Grace," and the "Most Noble," and he is officially addressed by the Crown as "Our right trusty and right entirely beloved Cousin."*

A Duke is likewise entitled, upon some occasions, "Most High, Potent, and Noble Prince."

The Mantles of Dukes are the same as a Baron's, with four rows of ermine on the cape, Duchesses wear the Mantles of Dukes, edged with pure miniver, five inches broad, and the train two yards on the ground.

Coronet—A circle of gold, surmounted by eight golden strawberry leaves; cap of crimson velvet, turned up ermine, thereon a golden tassel.

SPIRITUAL LORDS.

Archbishops.

ARCHBISHOPS have the Ducal title of "Grace," and take precedence of all Dukes next to those of the Blood Royal. The Archbishop of Canterbury ranks as first lord, and the Archbishop of York as third, coming immediately after the Lord Chancellor. The Archbishop of Canterbury styles himself, "by Divine providence," while the Archbishop of York and the Bishops adopt the term "permission" instead of "providence."

* When a nobleman is of the Privy Council, the word Councillor is placed before his name, for instance "Our right trusty and right entirely beloved Cousin and Councillor Algernon George Duke of Northumberland."

Bishops.

By an Act of Parliament passed in the thirty-first year of HENRY VIII., it was settled that Bishops take precedence of all Barons, and immediately after Viscounts; the Bishops of London, Durham, and Winchester, preceding their Right Reverend brethren.

Bishops are styled "Lords," and "Right Reverend Fathers in God."

Note.—In the time of the Saxons, the Bishops, Abbots, and other ecclesiastical persons, held their lands free from all secular services, except the trinoda necessitas,—namely, expeditio, pontium et arcuum extructio, et refectio. But soon after the establishment of the Normans they were charged with the same obligations of military service as laymen. In consequence of this change, the Bishops became tenants in capite per baroniam, and were, of course, bound to attend the curia regis, which at that time was considered as a burthensome office. It is therefore probable that the Bishops did not willingly acquiesce in this alteration; and when the immunities of the church were so much restrained by the Constitutions of Clarendon, in 10th HENRY II., it was expressly declared, that the Archbishops and Bishops should hold their lands as Baronies, and attend the King's court.

The Bishops were always exempt from doing homage for their Baronies, but were bound to take the oath of fealty.

The great Abbots were also bound to attend parliament, if summoned, when they held their land per baroniam.—CRUISE On Dignities.

See now, as to Bishops sitting in Parliament, the 10 and 11 Vict., cap. 108, a statute passed 23rd July, 1847.

PEERS OF SCOTLAND.

THE word Peerage cannot be very properly applied to Scottish dignities until late in the 16th century.

The Scottish Earl sprang out of the Celtic Mormaer, or Great Steward. Seven Earls are enumerated by their names, not titles, in the foundation charter of Scone in 1114; and during the 12th century there existed a body called the Seven Earls, with whose sanction the King acted. They gradually passed from the position of "comites" of the Sovereign to that of Feudal Lords, holding the lands with which their connection had at first been judicial as an Earldom of the Crown. The creation of additional Earldoms formed part of the feudalizing system; and though the Earldoms continued to be spoken of as seven, the Earldoms enumerated were not always the same. The coronation of ALEXANDER II. (1214) is the latest date at which the Earls are specified as seven in number; and their functions afterwards merged in those of the "Communitas."

Earldoms continued territorial much longer in Scotland than in England. From the beginning of the feudal period, nearly to the 17th century the title was usually conferred by the erection of certain lands into an Earldom, the charter but rarely making specific mention of the dignity of Earl. In 1578 the practice first became general of introducing the title of Earl into the charter, and from that date till 1600 half the charters of Earldom in the Register of the Great Seal—they are eighteen in all—make special mention of it. Patents of the dignity of Earl after the English fashion were first introduced in 1600, the oldest being that of the Earl of Winton. The older Earldoms, like lands and other heritable subjects, passed to heirs of line; and in the case of co-heirs the lands were divided and the dignity with the chief messuage went to the eldest co-heir. The husband of a Countess was often, though not always, designed by the courtesy title of Earl.

The title of a Lord of Parliament (as distinct from a minor baron) originated in the reign of JAMES I. The Scottish Parliament was an assemblage in one chamber of the three orders of the "Communitas," Prelates, Barons, and Burgesses. The Earls belonged to the order of Barons. All Barons in the old sense, i.e., landholders holding their lands with baronial jurisdiction, had the right, or rather were under the obligation, of attending the meetings of the Estates. To the less considerable landholders this was a grievous burden, and not always strictly enforced. By a statute of 1428 the "small Barons" were excused from attending Parliament, and an attempt was made to introduce a system of representation, which proved ineffectual. About the same period began the practice of conferring the dignity of a Lord of Parliament on the more considerable Barons, a novelty brought by JAMES I. from England.

The title of Duke was first bestowed in 1398 on the eldest son of ROBERT III., who was made Duke of Rothesay, and the King's brother, Robert, Earl of Fife, who was made Duke of Albany. The latter title was an empty honour unconnected with lands. Down to a late date the title of Duke was almost exclusively bestowed on near relations of the royal house.

The first Marquessate was that of Ormond, bestowed on James, Duke of Ross, second son of JAMES III., at his christening; and the only other instances of this title before the Union of the Crowns were the Marquessates of Hamilton and Huntly. Afterwards the dignity became more frequent, and was sometimes conferred along with a Dukedom.

A Scottish Peerage could, down to the Union, be resigned into the hands of the King to be re-granted to a new series of heirs, a transaction to which the heir alioqui successurus had no right to object, and which was completed by a Crown charter of resignation.

Precedency in right of priority of creation was little thought of till far on in the 16th century. That the great Earls of Douglas, Crauford, and afterwards of Angus would take rank after Earls of older creation would have been unintelligible in the 15th century. As late as 1592 and 1604 the Earl of Angus protested for precedence before not only Earls but Dukes. After the English idea of precedency according to date of creation began to obtain, the disputes to which it gave rise led to the appointment of a Commission in 1606 to rank the nobility of Scotland; and the decreet then pronounced, with such changes as were introduced by authority of the Court of Session, was the basis of the precedence on the Union Roll.

The creation of Scottish Peers ceased at the union of 1707. The Act of Union gave to all Peers of Scotland the privileges of Peers of England, except the right to sit in Parliament and on the trial of Peers. The Scottish Peers are represented in Parliament by sixteen of their number elected by themselves. A Scottish Peer is debarred from sitting in the House of Commons. A large number of Peers of Scotland have since the Union been made Peers of Great Britain, or of the United Kingdom.

PRIVILEGES OF THE PEERAGE.

Peers and Peeresses are free from all arrest in civil actions, and in such cannot be outlawed, nor can any attachment lie against their person.

Peers are exempt from serving on juries, from attending courts-leet, or sheriff's turns; or, in case of riot, the posse-comitatus.

They are to be tried, in cases of treason and felony, by their Peers.

A Peer gives his judgment not an oath but on honour; but when examined as a witness, he must be sworn.

Peers are tried in courts arranged specifically for the purpose, usually in the centre of Westminster Hall, at the expense of the Crown, which courts are removed as soon as the investigation terminates.

"The honour of Peers," says Sir William Blackstone (1. Comm. 402), "is so highly tended by the law, that it is much more penal to spread false reports of them, and certain other great officers of the realm, than of other men; scandal against them being called by the peculiar name of scandalum magnatum, and subject to peculiar punishments by divers ancient statutes." This proceeding, however, by writ of scandalum magnatum, which is of a civil as well as of a criminal nature, is now almost obsolete, the ordinary modes of obtaining legal redress being generally preferred. Indeed, in a criminal prosecution for scandalum magnatum the defendant would, no doubt, now be allowed the privileges and be subject only to the punishments enacted by the modern Libel Act, the 6 & 7 Vict., cap. 96. It has been held that words are actionable in the case of a peer which are not so in that of a common person: as to say of a peer: "He is an unworthy man, and acts against law and reason." Lord Townshend v. Dr. Hughes, 2 Modern Reports, 150.

Peers have the privilege of sitting covered in courts of justice during their proceedings.

The Barons of Kingsale enjoy the hereditary privilege of being covered in the royal presence, after having made their obeisance.

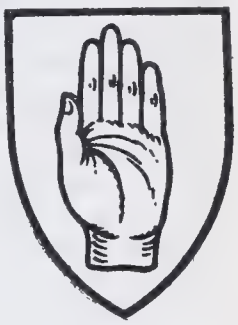
By the curialitas regni, the eldest son in each degree of created dignity is as of the degree next to his father; and such eldest sons of Peers of the rank of Earl, Marquess, and Duke as enjoy a plurality of titles, take and use the secondary one by courtesy.

All Peers are entitled to carry Supporters to their arms, as incidental to their hereditary dignity, and otherwise adorn them exteriorly with their respective coronets and mantles. Selden states that a coronet is first mentioned in the investiture of Earls in the time of Edward VI.; but that they were much more ancient appears from the will of Richard, Earl of Arundel, dated 5th December, 1375, in which he bequeathes his three coronets to his son and his two eldest daughters, a circumstance which proves that coronets were carried as ensigns of high nobility in the fourteenth century, but not according to any rule or restriction as to their descent.

Note.—Some peers of Ireland, created since the Union, and in no wise connected with Ireland, take their titles from places in England; but by a sort of fiction, the name of an English county is never introduced into the patent. Lord Rendlesham is of Rendlesham, without any county. Lord Macdonald is of Slate, in the county of Antrim, whereas Slate is in the Hebrides. Lord Newborough is of Ireland.

THE BARONETAGE.

THE hereditary Order of Baronets was erected by patent in England by KING JAMES I. in 1611, extended to Ireland by the same Monarch in 1619, and first conferred in Scotland by KING CHARLES I. in 1625.



At the institution many of the chief estated gentlemen of the kingdom were selected for the dignity. The first batch of baronets comprised some of the principal landed proprietors, among the best descended gentlemen of the kingdom; and the list was headed by a name illustrious more than any other for the intellectual pre-eminence with which it is associated—the name of Bacon. To this first batch Lancashire contributed Molyneux, Hoghton, and Gerard; Sussex, Pelham and Shelley; Suffolk, Tollemache; Leicestershire, Shirley; Nottinghamshire, Clifton; Staffordshire, Aston; Norfolk, Hobart and Knyvett; Glamorganshire, Mansel and Stradling; Wiltshire, St. John; Cheshire, Booth; Cambridgeshire, Peyton; and Derbyshire, Leke. All these were the representatives of territorial families, which had their rise, most of them, at the Conquest, and one or two even in Saxon times.

The Order of Baronets is scarcely estimated at its proper value. A glance over the names which fill the roll of Baronet-creations will convince anyone of the distinction and nobility of the institution. For some time the possession of territorial influence was the main qualification, and the Order was confined principally to country gentlemen of property and descent. But in more modern days, the circle has been enlarged, and made to include such men as Temple, Hans Sloane, Rodney, Humphry Davy, Herschel, Peel, Walter Scott, Lytton Bulwer, John Burgoyne, Frederick and George Pollock, Maziere Brady and Napier, Havelock and Outram, Astley Cooper, Corrigan, Brodie, Fowell-Buxton, and Rothschild, who raised their families to greatness by their pre-eminence in science, literature, commerce, or arms. It seems a pity that so important an hereditary Order should possess no designating mark of distinction. The Orders of Chivalry, the Garter, the Thistle, St. Patrick, and the Bath, have their insignia. Some years ago, the Baronets sought to obtain from the favour of the Crown some such distinction, and a committee was formed to press their claim upon the Sovereign. Too much, however, was asked and nothing gained. Possibly, if the Baronets had sought only the privilege of wearing a Badge, a privilege enjoyed by the Baronets of Scotland, a royal concession might have been made.

The Order of Baronets in Scotland, instituted in 1625, was in its origin connected with Sir William Alexander's scheme for colonizing Nova Scotia. The number was not to exceed 150; the sum payable for the honour was £3,000; and the patents down to 1638 included a grant of specified lands in Nova Scotia, though that colony had before the date in question passed into the hands of the French. The latter creations by CHARLES I. included gentlemen unconnected with Scotland; and in one instance the dignity was granted to a lady, Dame Maria Bolles, of Osberton, co. Nottingham. In almost all the patents granted by CHARLES I. the limitation was to heirs male whomsoever; afterwards, though there was some occasional variety, the most usual limitation was to heirs male of the body.

PRIVILEGES OF THE BARONETAGE.

BY the constitution of the Baronetage, it is declared and provided that Baronets and their heirs male, their wives' sons, daughters, and sons' wives, respectively, or any of them at whatsoever time to come, in all questions concerning any place, precedence, privilege, or other matter concerning them, shall be regulated by the use and practice of custom and law, as other hereditary degrees of dignity are ordained and directed, concerning place, prerogative, and precedence.

The wives of Baronets are Ladies, and enjoy place and precedency, both during the lives and after the decease of their husbands, according to the manner and usage of other hereditary degrees.

The daughters of Baronets have the rank and precedence of their eldest brother.

The Baronets of the several creations have assigned to them by the grant of the royal founder, as a perpetual military post of honour, place in the royal armies of the Sovereign, near and about the Royal Standard for its defence.

The Baronets of England and Ireland bear, as an honourable augmentation, on a canton on their armorial ensigns, the royal arms of Ulster, viz., arg., a sinister hand erect gu., the earlier baronetcies having been erected to promote the Plantation of that province.

It was at first provided that the Baronets of Scotland should charge their coat armour with a similar augmentation,—viz., the arms of Nova Scotia. By a royal warrant of CHARLES I. in 1629, they became entitled to wear as a personal decoration, an Orange-tawny Riband and Badge,—viz., in a scutcheon, arg., a Saint Andrew's cross, az., thereon an inescutcheon of the royal arms of Scotland, with an imperial crown above the scutcheon, and encircled with the motto, "Fax mentis honestæ gloria," being the motto of HENRY, Prince of Wales, the eldest son of the royal Founder of the Order.

Since the Legislative Unions between England and Scotland, and between Great Britain and Ireland, the separate Orders of Baronets have been superseded by the one general institution of BARONETS OF THE UNITED KINGDOM, who also bear on their coat armour, as an augmentation, a canton (or inescutcheon), arg. charged with a sinister hand, couped and erect, gu.

THE KINGS OF SCOTLAND.

KINGS OF SCOTLAND.

WITH all the light that the researches of Celtic scholars and historical antiquaries have lately thrown on the early history of Scotland, some obscurity still hangs over the succession of the kings of the Picts and Dalriadic Scots; our sketch of the Royal Line will, therefore, begin with the union of Picts and Scots, under a King of Scottish race in 850. By the Celtic principle of "tanistry," which prevailed in Scotland nearly to the end of the eleventh century, the succession, hereditary in a particular family, was elective among the members of that family, a preference being given to the oldest and worthiest.

KENNETH I. (called MacAlpin), reigned from 844 to 859.

DONALD I., his brother, reigned from 859 to 863.

CONSTANTINE I., son of KENNETH I., reigned from 863 to 877. He fell in a battle with the Danes, and was s. by his brother,

AEDH, who reigned but one year, 877–8, and is said to have been "slain by his people." His successor was

EOCHA, son of RUN, KING OF STRATHCLYDE, by the daughter of KENNETH I. He reigned 878 to 889; CIRIC or GRIG, son of DUNGAIL, being associated with him. Their successor,

DONALD II, son of CONSTANTINE I., reigned from 889 to 900. He was slain in a Danish invasion, and was s. by

CONSTANTINE II., son of AEDH, who reigned 42 years, 900 to 942, and, harassed by the ravages of the Northmen, retired, in 942, to the Monastery of St. Andrews. His successor,

MALCOLM I., son of DONALD II., reigned from 942 to 954. His cousin,

INDULPH, son of CONSTANTINE II., reigned from 954 to 962. His cousin,

DUBH, son of MALCOLM I., reigned from 962 to 967. His cousin,

CUILEAN, son of INDULPH, reigned from 967 to 971. His cousin,

KENNETH II., son of MALCOLM I., reigned from 971 to 995. His cousin,

CONSTANTINE III., son of CUILEAN, reigned from 995 to 997. His cousin,

KENNETH III., son of DUBH, reigned from 997 to 1005, and was slain at Monzievaird about 25 March, 1005, by his cousin,

MALCOLM II., son of KENNETH II., who reigned 1005 to 1034. He d. 25 Nov. 1034, having had three daus.,

1. Bethoc, m. about 1000, Crinan, the Thane, Lay Abbot of Dunkeld, who was slain 1045, leaving issue,
   1. Duncan, afterwards DUNCAN I.
   2. Maldred, m. Edith, dau. of Uchtred, Earl of Northumberland, and was father of Gospatric, Earl of Northumberland.
   1. A dau., who was mother of Moddan.
2. Donada, m. Finlaec, Mormaer of Moray, and had a son,
   MACBETH, King of Scots.
3. Another dau. m. Sigurd, Earl of Orkney, and had issue.

His grandson and successor,

He m. a cousin of Siward, Earl of Northumberland, and had three sons, MALCOLM III, DONALD BANE, and MELMARE. In his reign the north and west of Scotland were conquered by the Northmen, under Thorfinn. His cousin, MACBETH, Mormaer of Moray, joining his fortunes to those of the invader, put DUNCAN to death 14 Aug. 1040, and ascended the throne.

MACBETH, son of FINLAEC, Mormaer of Moray, reigned from 1040 to 1057; m. GRUOCH, widow of Gillacomgan and dau. of BODE, son of KENNETH III. His kingdom seems to have been confined to the country south and west of the Tay, Thorfinn ruling over the rest. He was slain by MALCOLM, son of DUNCAN I., at Lumphanan, 15 Aug. 1057, s.p. His stepson and successor,

LULACH, son of GILLACOMGAN, Mormaer of Moray, and Gruoch his wife, dau. of BODE, son of KENNETH III., was made king by MACBETH'S party, and after reigning seven months, was slain at Essie, in Strathbogie, 17 March, 1057-8. He had a son, MALSNECHTAI, and also a dau., whose son, ANGUS, succeeding to the Earldom of Moray, was associated with Malcolm, natural son of ALEXANDER I., in an insurrection against DAVID I., but was defeated and slain in 1130.

MALCOLM III., known as Ceannmor, or Great Head, b. about 1031, eldest son of DUNCAN I., ascended the throne, 17 March, 1057-8. 2. Mary, m., 1102, Eustace, Count of Boulogne, and d. 31 May, 1116, leaving issue.

MALCOLM was slain at Alnwick, 13 Nov. 1093, and buried at Tynemouth. His brother,

DONALD BANE became King of Scots, 13 Nov. 1093, and was deposed May, 1094, by his nephew,

DUNCAN II., b. 1060, son of MALCOLM III., by his first wife. He m. about 1090, Ethelreda, dau. of Gospatrick, Earl of Northumberland, and had by her a son, WILLIAM, who m. Alice de Rumeli, and had a son, William of Egremont, who d. under age. In 1097, through means of EDGAR ATHELING, DONALD was defeated and expelled from Scotland, EDMUND imprisoned, and the throne assumed by EDGAR, another son of MALCOLM III. The Duke of Abercorn, the Marquess of Lansdowne, and the Earl of Verulam are the only members of the Peerage who enjoy distinct peerages of the three kingdoms.

Lineage—Genealogical writers, Sir Robert Douglas and others, affirm that the Hamiltons derive their origin from the magnificent Norman race of De Bellomonts, Earls of Leicester, through the Lords of the Manor of Hamilton, in the co. of Leicester, who flourished there previous to the extinction of the De Bellomonts, and who are considered to have been a branch of that family. They carried the same arms as those of the Earls of Leicester, with the difference of THREE cinquefoils instead of ONE, as a mark of cadency; the ancient lords of the manor of Hamilton and the Hamiltons of Scotland bearing for their arms THREE cinquefoils ermine, on a field gules, whereas the De Bellomonts, Earls of Leicester, and their ancestors, the Counts of Mellent, bore ONE cinquefoil ermine, on a field gules. Without attempting, however, to trace the exact line of descent of the illustrious Scottish house of Hamilton from the great and powerful stock of the ancient De Bellomonts, Earls of Leicester, we commence with

SIR GILBERT DE HAMILTON, the immediate ancestor of the great family of Hamilton. He lived in the reign of ALEXANDER II., King of Scotland, and is said to have m. Isabella Randolph, sister of Thomas Randolph, Earl of Moray. He had issue two sons, 1. WALTER; 2. John. The latter, Sir John FitzGilbert Hamilton, of Rossaven and Preston, was ancestor of a very distinguished branch of the Hamilton family, the Hamiltons, Baronets of Preston. Sir Gilbert de Hamilton's eldest son,

SIR WALTER FITZ GILBERT HAMILTON swore fealty to King EDWARD I. in 1292 and 1294. Attaching himself to King ROBERT BRUCE, he had grants of Kenel (Kinniel), of Cadzow (Hamilton), which became the chief lordship and seat of the Hamilton family. He m. Mary, dau. of Sir Adam Gordon, Lord of Gordon, by whom he had issue,

1. DAVID, of whom presently.
2. John, ancestor of the Hamiltons of Innerwick and the Earls of Haddington.

The elder son,

SIR DAVID HAMILTON, 2nd Lord of Cadzow. In 1346 he was made prisoner at the battle of Durham. In 1361, he was a benefactor to the see of Glasgow, and was one of the Magnates Scotiæ who consented to the settlement of the crown in 1371. He d. 1374. He m. Margaret, dau. of William, 7th Earl of Ross, by whom he had two sons, 1. DAVID; 2. WALTER. The latter, Walter Hamilton, was ancestor of the family of Hamilton, of Cambuskeith, in the co. of Ayr. The elder son,

SIR DAVID HAMILTON, 3rd Lord of Cadzow, had grants of land from King ROBERT II. in 1377. He d. before 1392. He m. Jonetta Keith, dau. of Sir William Keith, of Galston, by whom he had issue, 1. JOHN; 2. GEORGE, ancestor of Hamilton, of Boreland, in the co. of Ayr, and its cadets Hamilton, of Blantyrefarme, and Hamilton, of Olivestob; 3. WILLIAM, ancestor of Hamilton, of Bathgate, in the co. of Linlithgow; 4. ANDREW, ancestor of Hamilton, of Udston, in the co. of Lanark, and Hamilton of Barncluith, in the same county. Both families ended in heiresses who m. into the family of Hamilton of Neilsland, a branch of the House of Raploch, and were carried on by that line; 5. DAVID, ancestor to the family of Hamilton of Bardowie, represented by Buchanan Hamilton, of Bardowie and Leny. The eldest son,

* The title of DUKE OF CHATELLERAULT was granted by Letters Patent, dated 5 Feb. 1548, to JAMES HAMILTON, 2ND EARL OF ARRAN, Regent of Scotland, and to his heirs, successors, and "ayants cause" for ever.

The exact meaning of this limitation is explained by the 4th article of the Royal Edict of Marly, of 1711, issued by LOUIS XIV.:—

"PAR les termes d'hoirs et successeurs et par les termes d'ayants cause tant insérés dans les lettres d'érection ci-devant accordées, qu'à insérer dans celles qui pourraient être accordées à l'avenir, ne seront et ne pourront être entendus que les enfants mâles descendus de celui en faveur duquel l'érection aura été faite, et que les mâles qui en seront descendus de mâles en mâles, en quelque ligne et degré que ce soit."

The title of Duke of Chatellerault at the decease of JAMES, 2ND EARL OF ARRAN AND 1ST DUKE OF CHATELLERAULT, in 1575, became the inheritance of his eldest son JAMES, 3RD EARL OF ARRAN, who d. unm. His brother, LORD JOHN HAMILTON, 1ST MARQUESS OF HAMILTON, had an only son, JAMES, 2ND MARQUESS OF HAMILTON AND 3RD DUKE OF CHATELLERAULT, who d. 2 March, 1624–25, leaving three sons, and no other male issue. The youngest of these sons, Lord John Hamilton, d. young unm. The other two were—JAMES, 3RD MARQUESS OF HAMILTON AND 4TH DUKE OF CHATELLERAULT, and Lord William Hamilton, who eventually s. his brother.

JAMES, the 3RD MARQUIS OF HAMILTON (created Duke of Hamilton with special limitations), d. 9 March, 1648–49, leaving a daughter, ANNE, DUCHESS OF HAMILTON, of whom the EARL OF DERBY is heir-general, and the Duke of Hamilton a descendant. At the death of this James, 3rd Marquess and 1st Duke of Hamilton, his only surviving brother,

LORD WILLIAM HAMILTON, became 2ND DUKE OF HAMILTON AND 5TH DUKE OF CHATELLERAULT, and d. 1651, without leaving any heir male of his body, whereupon the male succession—that is, the male representation of James, 2nd Earl of Arran, 1st Duke of Chatellerault—devolved upon his kinsman, JAMES HAMILTON, 2ND EARL OF ABERCORN, who then became the heir designated by the limitation in the patent conferring the Dukedom of Chatellerault. This James, 2nd Earl of Abercorn, was heir male of the house of Hamilton, heir male of the Earls of Arran, and lineal descendant and heir male of the 1st Duke of Chatellerault. His direct descendant, "de mâles en mâles," and representative in blood is JAMES, present DUKE OF ABERCORN.

Walrond, 1st Bart., and sister of Lord Waleran.

Lineage—The family of Acland is one of great antiquity. The pedigree recorded in the Visitation of Devon, A.D. 1620, commences with Baldwin Eccelin, whose son, Baldwin Acalen, of Acalen, in the parish of Land Key, Devon, was living temp. Henry III., but the antiquity of the family is also shown by a deed in Pole's MS. Deeds and Charters, in which mention is made of Hugh de Acalen, temp. Henry II. The Visitation pedigree carries down the family link by link to Hugh Acland, of Acland, living at the time the Visitation was made. He was eldest son of John Akeland, of Akeland, by Margaret, his wife, dau. and co-heiress of Hugh Radcliffe, of Stepney, and elder brother of Sir John Acland, Knt. of Columb-John, High Sheriff of Devon in 1608. Sir John Acland, 1st Bart., was created a baronet 24 June, 1644; but the letters-patent having been destroyed during the civil wars, new ones were granted 21 Jan. 1677-8, with a special clause of precedence from the date of the first letters. Sir John was distinguished by his zealous devotion to the cause of loyalty; and at one time the garrison of Columb-John was the only armed force (according to Lord Clarendon) which Charles I. had in the whole county of Devon. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Francis Vincent, 1st Bart., and by her (who d. 5 Feb. 1696) he had (with two daus., Eleanor, the wife of Sir John Davie, Bart., and Susanna, who m. 1st, Edward Halsall, and 2ndly, John Carleton) three sons, who in turn inherited the baronetcy. Lineage—The family of KENNEDY is traditionally descended from the ancient Earls of Carrick. The first of the family mentioned in any charter, Nisbet informs us, is DUNCAN DE CARRICK, afterwards 1st Earl of Carrick, and from the document it appears that he lived in the reign of MALCOLM IV., which began about 1150. The grandson of Duncan, ROLAND, of Carrick, had a grant of the county of Carrick from his uncle Neil, 2nd Earl of Carrick, who d.s.p.m. 1256, and was declared chief of his name. The chieftainship was afterwards repeatedly confirmed to the KENNEDY family. The direct ancestor,

JOHN KENNEDY, of Dunure, a very prominent personage in the reigns of DAVID II. and ROBERT II., had a confirmatory charter from DAVID II. of the lands of CASTLYS, co. Ayr, with other lands which he had acquired from Marjorie Montgomerie. He acquired the barony of Dalrymple 1370 and 1376, and had a charter of his lands 1357-8, and again in 1381. He d. soon after 1385. He was s. by his eldest son,

SIR GILBERT KENNEDY, one of the hostages delivered to the English, in 1357, for the liberation of DAVID II. He m. Agnes, dau. of Sir John Maxwell of Pollok, and had, 1. JAMES, his heir-apparent; 2. Alexander, d. unm.; 3. Hugh of Ardstynchar; 4. John, of Blairquhan; 5. Thomas, ancestor of KENNEDY, of Bargany; and 6. David, of Kirkmichael. The eldest son,

JAMES KENNEDY, younger, of Dunure, m. 1405, Mary, dau. of King ROBERT III., and widow of George, Earl of Angus, and d.v.p., before 8 Nov. 1408, leaving issue, 1. John (Sir), long a prisoner in Stirling Castle; 2. GILBERT, 1st lord, heir to his grandfather; and 3. James, bishop of Dunkeld, and afterwards of St. Andrews, one of the greatest of Scottish statesmen and prelates, founder of St. Andrews University. The 2nd son,

GILBERT KENNEDY, of Dunure, 1st Lord Kennedy, s. his grandfather, was made a lord of parliament, between 27 May, 1457, and 20 March, 1457-8; and in 1466 was appointed one of the six regents of the kingdom during the minority of JAMES III. His lordship m. 1st, Catherine, dau. of Herbert, 1st Lord Maxwell, by whom he had three sons, 1. JOHN, 2nd lord, 2. James, of Row, 3. Walter, of Glentig, and parson of Douglas, and two daus., 1. Catherine, wife of Alexander, 2nd Lord Montgomery; and 2. Marion, wife of John Wallace, of Craigie. He m. 2ndly, Isabel, dau. of Walter Ogilvie, of Lintrathen, and widow of Patrick, Lord Glamis. His eldest son,

Alexander, ancestor of the Kennedies of Girvanmains, and four daus. He was s. in 1508 by his eldest son,

GILBERT, 3rd Earl of Cassillis, filled the high office of lord treasurer of Scotland, and assisted, as a deputed Scottish peer, in 1558, at the marriage of the ill-fated Mary Stuart with Francis, dauphin of France. The ceremony was celebrated with great pomp, but when the crown-matrimonial was demanded, the Scotch deputies, in a respectful but firm manner, discovered a fixed resolution of consenting to nothing that tended to introduce any alteration in the order of succession to the crown. This opposition to the views of the French court gave great offence, and occasioned a report that poison was administered to the deputies, of whom Lord Fleming d. at Paris, and the Earls of Cassillis and Rothes, and Bishop Reid, president of the Court of Session, at Dieppe, all three in one night, 28 Nov. 1558. AIRLIE.

The Earl of Airlie (David Lyulph Gore Wolseley Ogilvy), Baron Ogilvy, of Airlie, and Baron Ogilvy of Alyth and Lintrathen, in Scotland, b. 18 July, 1893; s. his father as 9th earl 1900.

Lineage—The family of Ogilvy derives its pedigree from the Mormaers of Angus, one of the seven great hereditary chiefs of Scotland, who in the 11th century exchanged that designation for the title of earl.

Gilibride, Earl of Angus, in the time of David I., had with other issue three sons, Angus, his successor in that earldom; Magnus, who through his mother s. to the earldom of Caithness; and Gilbert. The 3rd son,

Gilbert, assumed the surname of Ogilvy from lands so called in his possession, of which, with Powrie and Kyneithein in Angus, he had a charter in 1172. From him descended

Sir Patrick Ogilvy, of Wester Powrie, who had from Robert I. a charter of Kettins in Forfarshire. He had two sons, 1. Alexander, his heir, a quo the family of Ogilvy of Ogilvy, extinct; 2. Patrick.

Patrick Ogilvy, of Wester Powrie, the 2nd son, obtained from his nephew, Sir Patrick Ogilvy of Ogilvy, to him and Marjory, his wife, the lands of Wester Powrie. By marriage with this Marjory, dau. and eventually heiress of Robert Ramsay, of Auchterhouse, he had a son,

Walter Ogilvy, of Wester Powrie and Auchterhouse, hereditary sheriff of Forfar, to which estate and office he succeeded on the death of his uncle, Sir Malcolm Ramsay, circa 1365. He had two sons, Alexander, who d. unm., and Walter. The 2nd son,

Sir Walter Ogilvy, of Auchterhouse, sheriff of Forfar, was a man of great worth and merit, and lost his life in the following manner:—Duncan Stewart, natural son of Alexander, Earl of Buchan, having entered the shire of Angus, at the head of a lawless gang of robbers, in order to plunder the country, the sheriff, accompanied by his uterine brother, Walter Lighton, ancestor of that family, and a numerous posse of country people, overtook the robbers at a place called Glenbrerith, in Angus, where, after a smart skirmish, Sir Walter with his brother, and about sixty of his followers, were killed on the spot, 1391. He m. Isabel, dau. and heir of Sir Malcolm Ramsay. He left (with a dau., Marjory, m. David, 3rd Earl of Crawford) three sons,

1. Alexander (Sir), of Auchterhouse, sheriff of Forfar 1403-23, who had issue,
   1. Sir Patrick, of Auchterhouse, sheriff of Forfar and justiciary, father of Alexander, of Auchterhouse, whose dau. and heir Margaret, m. James Stewart, Earl of Buchan, brother uterine of JAMES II.
   2. Sir Andrew, of Inchmartin, ancestor in the male line of the 2nd and subsequent Earls of Findlater, from whom the Earl of Seafield comes by female descent.
2. WALTER (Sir), of Lintrathen, of whom below.
3. John, of Inverquharity, of whom OGILVY, of Inverquharity, Bart., q.v.

The 2nd son,

SIR WALTER OGILVY, of Lintrathen, was high treasurer of Scotland under JAMES I. His first wife, by whom he acquired Lintrathen in Forfarshire, is said to have been an heiress of the Durward family. He afterwards m. Isabel, dau. of Sir John Glen, of Inchmartin. By the first marriage he had 1. JOHN (Sir), his heir, and 2. James; and by the second, 3. Walter (for whose descendants see SEAFIELD, Earl), 4. David, 5. Alexander, 6. Patrick, and 7. George. He d. 1440. His eldest son,

SIR JOHN OGILVY, of Lintrathen, had a charter of the lands and castle of Eroly (Airlie) in 1459, and had his lands erected into the Barony of Lintrathen in 1483. He m. Marian, dau. of Sir William Seton, of Seton; and 2ndly, before 1447, Margaret, widow of James Dunbar, Earl of Moray. His son,

SIR JAMES OGILVY, of Airlie, 1st Lord Ogilvy, was on 28 April, 1491, made a lord of parliament, as Lord Ogilvy of Airlie. He was the same year ambassador to Denmark. He m. 1st, Elizabeth Kennedy, by whom he had a son and successor, 1. JOHN, 2nd lord; 2ndly, Mary dau. of Archibald, 5th Earl of Angus, by whom he had a son 2. Walter, ancestor of the Ogilvys of Balfour. He d. about 1504, and was s. by his elder son,

Charles Havelock m. 14 May, 1833, Mary, 2nd dau. of James Wemyss, of the Bengal Civil Service, and by her (who d. 29 July, 1889) had issue.

The 2nd son,

Sir Henry Havelock, K.C.B., b. at Bishopwearmouth, co. Durham, 5 April, 1795, one of the most eminent soldiers of his time, was educated at the Charterhouse, and was originally a student of the Middle Temple. He became an officer in the British rifle brigade in 1815, and went first to India in 1823. He there took an active part in the first Burmese war. He was a captain in 1838; and was at the storming of Ghuznee, and the occupation of Cabul: he was also at the forcing of the Cabul Pass and the battle of Tezeen; and he commanded the right column in the sortie from Jellalabad and final victorious attack on Akbar, 7 April, 1842, for which he was made a major and a C.B. After various other services, he became a lieut.-col. in 1844, and went through the Sikh war, being present at the victories of Moodkee, Ferozeshah, and Sobraon. In the Persian war he was appointed to head the second division, and commanded at the battle of Mohammerah. On his return to Calcutta, he was sent as brigadier-general to relieve Cawnpore and succour Lucknow, then sorely pressed by the mutinous Sepoys. He consequently commenced, on 7 July, 1857, that memorable march, unparalleled in history, where, with only 1,400 British bayonets and eight guns, united to a small native force, and opposed to a countless mass of the enemy, when the slightest reverse would have been fatal, he proceeded victoriously through a country deluged with rain, from 7 July to 16 Sept., hurling back the foe in twelve severe engagements. Joined, on 16 Sept., by Sir James Outram and a few more troops, he stormed Lucknow, and effected his junction with and relief of its garrison. Then pent up in the Residency and its precincts at Lucknow, he and his band, with Spartan courage and more than Spartan success, held out for two months against all the efforts of the enemy until, by the advance of Sir Colin Campbell, 17 Nov. 1857, a victorious rescue was achieved. For these great services, as the news of them reached home, Havelock was made a major-general, 29 Sept. 1857; and a K.C.B., 17 Nov. 1857; and letters patent were directed, 26 Nov. 1857, to create him a baronet. The government also was about to grant an annuity of £1,000 for the lives of himself and his son: but the illustrious soldier did not live to obtain the baronetcy or pension. He was attacked with dysentery, brought on by the intense anxiety and fatigue he had undergone, and he died at the Dilkooska, near Lucknow, 24 Nov. 1857, and was interred the next day in the Alum-bagh. Sir Henry Havelock was the author of a History of the Burmese War, and of the War in Afghanistan. He m. 9 Feb. 1829, Hannah Shepherd, dau. of the Rev. CARMICHAEL-ANSTRUTHER OF CARMICHAEL AND OF ANSTRUTHER.

Sir Windham Frederick Carmichael-Anstruther, 10th Bart., a Baronet of Nova Scotia and of Great Britain, Heritable Carver and one of the Masters of the Royal Household in Scotland; b. 30 April, 1902; s. his father, 1903, as 10th and 7th Bart.

Lineage—This great family has ranked among the barons of Scotland during upwards of seven centuries. In the year 1100 William de Candela was Lord of Anstruther. As, at that early period, it was customary for nobles to adopt their surnames from their lands, it was rare to find a Scottish baron who possessed a family name besides his territorial designation. One of the few who had this distinction was William, Lord of Anstruther. He had already a noble name, and in 1100 he was one of the most considerable of the barons in Fife. Thus, the nobility of this family is ascertained during the last eight centuries.

William de Candela, Lord of Anstruther, lived through the reign of King David I., and did not die until the commencement of that of Malcolm IV., who ascended the Scottish throne in 1153. William's son,

William de Candela, Lord of Anstruther, was a pious benefactor to the Abbey of Balmerino, and d. in the reign of King William the Lion, which commenced in 1165. His son,

Henry, in compliance with the usage of Scotland, assumed the name of his lands as his surname, and disused that of De Candela. He is styled Henricus de Anstruther Dominus de Anstruther in a charter wherein he confirms his father's pious donations to the Abbey of Balmerino in 1221, in the reign of King Alexander II. He was a benefactor to the monastery of Dryburgh. His son,

Henry de Anstruther, Lord of Anstruther, was also a pious benefactor to the religious houses of Balmerino and Dryburgh in charters granted during the reign of King Alexander II. He was a crusader, and accompanied St. Louis to the East. In his old age he was compelled to swear fealty for his barony of Anstruther to Edward I. of England in 1292 and 1296. His son,

William de Anstruther, Lord of Anstruther, lived in the reign of King ROBERT I. He confirmed the donations of his ancestors to the abbey of Dryburgh. He was father of

HENRY DE ANSTRUTHER, of Anstruther, who was father of

RICHARD DE ANSTRUTHER, of Anstruther, who lived to a great age, and d. in the reign of King JAMES I. of Scotland. He was father of

Lineage—Nine centuries ago, Gillespie Campbell acquired, by marriage with Eva, dau. of the Treasurer of Scotland, Paul O'Duin, Chief of the O'Duin's, descended of Diarmid, the lordship of Lochow, in Argyllshire, and from him descended

Sir Colin Campbell, of Lochow, who, distinguished as well by the great acquisitions he had made to his estate, as his achievements in war, obtained the surname of Mor, or Great; and from him the chief of the house is in the Gaelic styled, to this day, Mac Cailein Mor. He was knighted by Alexander III., 1280, and was one of the nominees, 1291, on the part of Robert Bruce, in the contest for the crown of Scotland. This renowned and gallant chieftain was slain in a conflict with his powerful neighbour, the Lord of Lorn, at a place called the String of Lorn, where a cairn is erected over his grave. The event occasioned continued feuds for a series of years between the houses of Lochow and Lorn, which terminated at last by the marriage of the first Earl of Argyll with the heiress of Lorn. Sir Colin m. a lady of the name of St. Clair, and had,

1. Neil, his successor.
2. Donald, ancestor of Campbell, Earl of Loudoun (see that title).
3. Dugald (Sir), who swore fealty to Edward I. in 1296, but afterwards joined Robert Bruce.
4. Arthur, who, having sworn fidelity with his brother to King Edward, like him, afterwards joined Robert Bruce, from whom he obtained two charters of the constabulary of Dunstaffnage, with the mains thereof.
5. Duncan, likewise a supporter of the Bruce.

Sir Colin was s. by his eldest son,

Sir Nigel (or Niel) Campbell, who was knighted by Alex. III. towards the close of that monarch's reign. He joined Robert Bruce in 1296, and adhered to him in prosperity and adversity, and fought by his side in almost every field, from the battle of Methven to that of Bannockburn. The king had so high a sense of Campbell's services that he gave him his sister, Lady Mary Bruce, in marriage, and granted to him and his said wife, and John their son, all the lands which belonged to David de Strathbogie, Earl of Atholl. When the triumph of Bannockburn had decided the independence of Scotland, Sir Niel Campbell was one of the great barons in the parliament which met at Ayr, 26 April, 1315, and fixed the succession to the crown. By the Lady Mary Bruce, he had three sons, viz.,

1. Colin.
2. John (Sir), of Moulin, who, upon the forfeiture of David de Strathbogie, 11th Earl of Atholl, was advanced to that earldom. He fell at the battle of Halidon Hill, 1333; and dying without issue, the Earldom of Atholl reverted to the crown.
3. Duncan, of Menstrie.

Sir Niel d. in 1316, and was s. by his eldest son,

Sir Colin Campbell, of Lochow, who accompanied the king into Ireland, in 1316, to assist in placing his brother, Edward Bruce, upon the throne of that kingdom. Sir Colin, in 1334, assisted the Steward of Scotland in the recovery of the Castle of Dunoon from the English, which gave the first turn of fortune in favour of King David Bruce, and he was in consequence appointed heritable governor of that fortress. He m. a lady of the house of Lennox, and had three sons and a dau., viz.,

1. Archibald.
2. John, ancestor of the Campbells of Barbreck, Succoth, and others. This John Campbell appears to have held Ardskeodnish, as well as Barbreck. His descendants continued possessed of the latter estate until the male heirs having failed in the 16th generation, the heiress conveyed Barbreck to her husband, Colin Campbell, who in right of his marriage assumed the designation of "Barbreck," and as he was descended from Sir Colin Campbell, father of John, the first Campbell of Barbreck, the link of the male line was thus restored. Frederick William Campbell, 17th of Barbreck, disposed of his estate in Argyllshire.
3. Dugald, joined Baliol, and forfeited his estates.
1. Alicia, m. Allan Lauder, of Hatton.

He d. in 1340, and was s. by his eldest son,

Sir Archibald Campbell, of Lochow, m. Mary, dau. of Sir John Lamont, and had a son, Colin (Sir), his heir.

Sir Archibald adhered faithfully to David II., during his captivity in England, and had a grant, 1357, of his brother's forfeited estates in Cowal. He was s. by his son,

Sir Colin Campbell, of Lochow, who m. Margaret, 2nd dau. of Sir John Drummond, of Stobhall, and sister of Annabella, Queen Consort of Robert III., by whom he had issue,

1. Duncan (Sir).
2. Colin, of Ardkinglas, whose son,

John, had a charter of Auchingown from his uncle, Sir Duncan Campbell, 6 May, 1428, and was ancestor of Campbell, of Ardkinglas, represented by Callander, of Craigforth; Campbell, of Ardentinny, Dunoon, Carrick, Skipnish, Blythswood, Shawfield, Rachan, Auchwillin, and Dergachie. 3. Donald.

1. Christian, m. Duncan Macfarlane, of Arrochar.

Sir Colin was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

Sir Duncan Campbell, of Lochow, 1st Lord Campbell, who was raised to the dignity of a lord of parliament by James II., in 1445, by the title of Lord Campbell, having in the previous reign been of the privy council, and been appointed the king's justiciary, and lord lieutenant of the co. Argyll. His lordship m. 1st, Lady Marjory (or Marcellina) Stewart, dau. of Robert, Duke of Albany, Regent of Scotland, and granddau. of King Robert, and had issue,

1. Archibald (or Celestin), m. Elizabeth, dau. of John, 3rd Lord Somerville, of Carnwath; and 2ndly, it is said, a dau. of Murdac, Duke of Albany. He d. before March, 1440, v.p., leaving a son, Colin, 2nd lord and 1st earl.

Lord Campbell m. 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of Sir John Stewart, of Blackhall, natural son of Robert III., and had four more sons, viz.,

2. Colin (Sir), ancestor of the Campbells of Glenorchy and Glenfalloch, Earls and Marquesses of Breadalbane.
3. Neil, ancestor of Campbell of Ellengreig, and of Armadale.
4. Duncan, of Auchinbreck, ancestor of Campbell, Bart. of Auchinbreck and the cadets of Glencardell, Glensaddell, &c.
5. Archibald, ancestor of Campbell of Otter, now extinct.

Lord Campbell was one of the hostages for the redemption of James I., in 1424, for whom he collected the ransom taking it to Windsor. His annual revenue at that time was stated to be fifteen hundred marks, a larger income than that of any other of the hostages. He d. at the close of the year 1453, and was s. by his grandson,

Colin, 2nd Lord Campbell and 1st Earl of Argyll, so created 1457. His lordship was appointed master of the king's household in 1464; and after filling several most important public situations, as ambassador to the courts of England and France, justiciary, &c., he was eventually made Lord High Chancellor of Scotland. He m. Isabel, eldest dau. and co-heir of John Stewart, Lord Lorne, and on 17 April, 1470, became Lord Lorne by a charter of that date, conveying to him the lands and lordship of Lorne on the resignation of his wife's uncle, Walter Stewart, Lord Lorne and Invermeath. The galley of Lorne has ever since formed part of the family achievement. Of this marriage there were two sons and seven daus.,

1. Archibald, 2nd earl.
2. Thomas, ancestor of Campbell of Lundie.
1. Margaret, m. George, 3rd Lord Seton.
2. Isabel, m. William, Master of Drummond, son and heir apparent of John, 1st Lord Drummond.

6. Agnes, m. Alexander MacKenzie, of Kintail.
7. Katherine, m., 1498, Torquil MacLeod, of Lewis.

The earl d. 10 May, 1493, and was s. by his elder son,

Archibald, 2nd Earl of Argyll, who fell in the command of the vanguard at the Battle of Flodden, 9 Sept. 1513. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of John, Earl of Lennox, and left issue,

1. Colin, 3rd earl.
2. Archibald, of Skippinch or Skipness, whose line ended with an heiress.
3. John (Sir), of Calder, ancestor of Campbell, Earl of Cawdor (see that title).
4. Donald, Abbot of Cupar, ancestor of Campbell of Keithock, co. Forfar.
1. Margaret, m. John, 5th Lord Erskine.
2. Isabel, m. Gilbert, 2nd Earl of Cassillis.
3. Mary, m. John, 2nd Earl of Atholl.

6. Marion, m. 8 Dec. 1526, Sir Robert Menzies, of Weems.

He was s. by his son,

Colin, 3rd Earl of Argyll. This nobleman was appointed, in 1528, lieutenant of the borders, warden of the marches, heritable sheriff of Argyllshire, justice-general of Scotland, and master of the king's household. His lordship m. Jane, dau. of Alexander, 3rd Earl of Huntly, and had issue,

His lordship d. in 1558, and was s. by his eldest son,

ARCHIBALD, 5th Earl of Argyll, who, at the breaking out of the civil wars in Scotland, espoused the cause of Queen MARY, and commanded her Majesty's forces at the battle of Langside, in 1568. After the assassination of the Regent MORAY, the Earl of Argyll, and other noblemen of the queen's party, assembled at Linlithgow, 10 April, 1570, and his lordship was then constituted, with the Duke of Chatelherault and the Earl of Huntly, her Majesty's lieutenant in Scotland. When the Regent LENNOX fell in 1571, by assassination too, he was candidate for the regency; but not succeeding, he was sworn of the privy council, and the next year constituted LORD HIGH CHANCELLOR. His lordship m. 1st, the Lady Jane Stuart, natural dau. of JAMES V. (The lady was at supper with her sister, Queen MARY, when Rizzio was murdered, 9 March, 1566; and she stood sponsor, as proxy for ELIZABETH of England, at the baptism of JAMES VI.). He d. 12 Sept. 1575, when the estates and honours devolved upon his half-brother,

SIR COLIN CAMPBELL, of Boquhan, 6th Earl of Argyll, who was sworn of the privy council in 1577, and appointed lord high chancellor of Scotland two years afterwards. He m. 1st, circ. 1551, Johanna, dau. of Henry, 1st Lord Methven, s.p. 2ndly, Agnes, dau. of William Keith, earl marischal, and widow of James, Earl of Moray (the Regent), by whom (who d. July, 1583) he had,

The earl d. in 1638, and was s. by his elder son,

ARCHIBALD, 8th Earl and 1st Marquess of Argyll, b. 1597, who was advanced to the Marquessate of Argyll by letters patent, dated 15 Nov. 1641. This nobleman resigned into the hands of CHARLES I. the justiciaryship of all Scotland, which had been in his family for several ages, reserving only to himself and his heirs the jurisdiction of the Western Isles, and of Argyll, and wherever else he had lands in Scotland, which arrangements were ratified by act of parliament in 1633. His lordship, who was so deeply engaged in the Scottish affairs of his time, and generally so mysteriously, that to treat of his career would produce rather a series of conjectures than of facts, acted a prominent part during the civil war, was the first commissioner from Scotland to the parliament of England, and commander-in-chief of the Covenanters, when defeated by Montrose at Inverlochie and Kilsyth; but after the king's murder, when Scotland, as with one voice, demanded the acknowledgment of CHARLES II., Argyll asserted his majesty's cause, and at the king's coronation at Scone, 1 Jan. 1650-1, had the honour of placing the crown upon his majesty's head. Subsequently, however, he assisted in the ceremony of proclaiming CROMWELL, Protector, and signed an engagement to support the usurper's government. On the restoration of the monarchy, the marquess immediately repaired to London, for the purpose of congratulating the king; but his majesty, refusing to see him, ordered his committal to the Tower, where he remained until December following, when he was sent back to Scotland by sea, and narrowly escaped shipwreck. He was soon afterwards tried for high treason, and condemned to death, 25 May, 1661. In two days subsequently, he wrote a long letter to the king, vindicating his memory, and imploring protection for his poor wife and family, dined at noon with his friends with great cheerfulness, and was accompanied by several of the nobility to the scaffold, where, after an interval of devotion, his head was struck off by the maiden at the market-cross of Edinburgh. He m. his cousin, Margaret, 2nd dau. of William, 9th Earl of Morton, by whom he had (with three daus., Anne, d. unm.; Jane, m. Robert, 1st Marquess of Lothian; and Mary, m. 1st, 1657, to George, Earl of Caithness, and 2ndly, 7 April, 1678, as 2nd wife of John, 1st Earl of Breadalbane) two sons,

1. ARCHIBALD, 9th earl.

ARCHIBALD, 9th Earl of Argyll, who, in 1663, was restored to the estates and honours of his family, as Earl of Argyll, Lord Campbell, Lorne, and Kintyre. This nobleman, for refusing to subscribe to the Test Act, was found guilty of high treason, 19 Dec. 1681, and sentenced to death, but effected his escape from the Castle of Edinburgh, under the disguise of a page, holding up the train of Lady Sophia Lindsay, his step-daughter, and departed the kingdom; he was subsequently taken, in an abortive attempt to invade Scotland in the beginning of the reign of JAMES II., and executed at the same place, and in the same manner, as his father, 30 June, 1685. He m. 1st, 13 May, 1650, Mary, dau. of James, 4th Earl of Moray. She d. May, 1668, leaving issue,
